

Can We Efile That???

Need a quick confirmation of whether a tax return can be e-filed or should be paper? Consult this table!

	Can We Efile That?
Tax return has a negative AGI	Yes
Tax return has zero AGI and no tax due or refund owed	No
A dependent on the tax return is deceased and the date of death is more than 6 months prior to tax return preparation	No
Self-employment income was mis-reported on Form 1099-MISC in Box 3 rather than on Form 1099-NEC , for tax years 2020 and forward	Yes!  Report the amount from Form 1099-MISC Box 3 as Cash income on Schedule C
Married Filing Separately tax return prepared for a taxpayer who is a resident of a non-community property state (and thus there is no Form 8958 , Allocation of Tax Amounts Between Certain Individuals in Community Property States)	No  (Tax Program policy)
Amendment for 2021 or later if the taxpayer is changing filing status from the original tax return	Yes
An ITIN holder is filing with a newly-issued SSN for the first time.	Maybe  If the taxpayer will file with a new SSN but there is a different SSN on their Forms W-2 (if any), the tax return must be Paper to make sure the IRS can connect the W-2 earnings with the taxpayer's new SSN. A statement should be included to explain the circumstances. See: When an ITIN Holder Gets a SSN  If the taxpayer has only self-employment income or is able to get the Forms W-2 updated with their accurate SSN, the tax return can be efiled. The taxpayer must send a statement to the IRS. See: When an ITIN Holder Gets a SSN
